PRIZE

An annual prize devoted to discovering and nurturing the next generation of photographic artists

What could you win

This year's Winner will receive a prize of £2,000 [$2,500 USD] thanks to generous contributions from our partners, see below. This year's shortlisted artists will all be invited to participate in a group exhibition hosted by Open Doors Gallery at Photo Book Cafe in London to celebrate their talent and their projects. A selection of prints from OD Photo Prize's shortlisted artists will be exhibited and made available for sale online and at the exhibition. The Winner and two Runners Up will have their projects on display at the exhibition in a more expansive way as well as at least a year advertised as an artist on the Open Doors Gallery website alongside our award winning roster.

Selected finalists are also eligible for a variety of awards chosen by our panel of influential experts in the field of photography. From being singled out by our panel as 'Judges's Picks' to the Metro Imaging Mentorship Award chosen by artist and creative director, Professor Steve MacLeod.

Shortlisted Artists

In total x25 shortlisted artists [including the above] will be invited to participate in an online exhibition through Open Doors Gallery and each artist will be invited to have a print on display at the Photo Book Cafe exhibition in December.

Alan Page Award

This award rewards exceptional single images from the OD Photo Prize's project submissions. Nine stand out images will be selected from the submissions and posted to the @odtakeovers discovery account for public vote. At least one will then be selected and exhibited at our end of year exhibition alongside the shortlisted artists.

"As an award winning copywriter working in the golden era of British advertising, Alan Page knew the power of a strong photographic image. Using some of the best image makers of the time to articulate his ideas, from David Bailey to Nadav Kander. This new award looks for the most captivating and visually arresting single images that also carry with them a story or a message."

– Tom Page, Founder & Director, ODG

"Anyone can create a great image... once. However only the very best can hit that high standard again and again. That's why this prize is set up as it is."

— Tom Page, Founder & Gallery Director

OD Photo Prize is an exciting opportunity for emerging artists working within the first ten years of their practice, founded by Open Doors Gallery. For many years, OD has been committed to discovering and showcasing artists working across all genres of contemporary photography. This prize is an extension of that philosophy, which looks to nurture long-term relationships with artists globally.
